

Yamada Hiroyuki

Position/Department/Division/Institution/Organization

Director General / Frontier and Moonshot Technology Department / New Energy and Industrial Technology Development Organization (NEDO)

Country

Japan

Career history

YAMADA Hiroyuki received the B.E. and the M.Tech. degree in mechanical engineering from the Tokyo Metropolitan University, Tokyo, Japan, in 1994 and 1996, respectively, and the Ph.D. degrees in materials engineering from the Graduate School of Engineering, The University of Tokyo, Tokyo, Japan, in 2007.

He joined New Energy and Industrial Technology Development Organization (NEDO), Kawasaki, Japan, in 1996.

He is Director General of Frontier and Moonshot Technology Department in NEDO.

Awards/Publications

“NEDO PV Challenges” (2014)

Areas of expertise

material flow analysis, hydraulic engineering, energy engineering, resource engineering